

Give Your Organization the Power to Collaborate and Learn More Effectively

The trend towards social learning is delivering greater business value to organizations today by capturing and strengthening the informal learning that is a critical component of successful learning management programs. Now, with social-enabled learning programs, learners receive both structured learning content, from classic learning management, to gain the formal knowledge and informal knowledge of their peers, from the social tools, to provide a richer, more interactive experience.

SumTotal Social Learning empowers informal learning by providing learners a complete set of tools to collaborate and share knowledge focused around any desired topic or learning activity. SumTotal Social Learning provides a complete set of tools, from flexible learning communities to content libraries, discussion forums, blogs and content rating tools to foster a rich, complete collaborative environment for all your users. Finally, SumTotal Social Learning gives learners a familiar, easy-to-use experience because all social tools are embedded within their existing SumTotal learning environment.

SumTotal Social Learning enables organizations to:

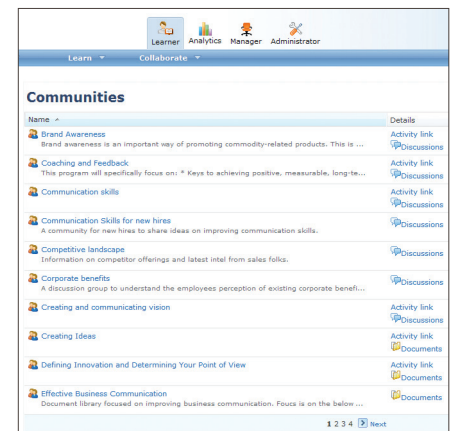

- Provide a richer, more interactive learning experience for all users through complete suite of embedded social learning tools
- Rapid access to all classic and social learning content within your SumTotal environment through a powerful federated search technology
- Improve knowledge retention among users by fostering informal learning between peers
- Drive improved business performance through more effective learning management programs
