

Accelerator Series

If you've made an investment in SumTotal learning and performance management solutions, you know the importance of talent development. You also know the importance of value. To drive the best possible business results, you need serious efficiency across the board—from deployment to system configuration to daily utilization.

But how do you know if your application is performing optimally? Are you leveraging the right training strategy? Can you get help finding the right content? Take your questions straight to the experts with the Accelerator Series from SumTotal Professional Services.

Addressing our most common, yet critical, inquiries, these new offerings make it easy to obtain expert guidance. Simply choose the offering that targets your specific needs—and we'll assist you, quickly and painlessly, as you navigate changes in configuration or organizational hierarchy, content deployments, reporting concerns, strategic restructuring, and much more. Through technical and process consulting engagements, our knowledgeable support professionals apply proven best practices in learning and performance management so you can truly get the most functionality from your system.

The best part? The Accelerator Series offerings are flexibly packaged and priced to offer extreme affordability—no large, up-front investment required. As a result, you're positioned to derive the greatest return on your talent development investment. Now that's value.

Introducing SumTotal RoD Training on Demand

Want to learn more about your SumTotal ResultsOnDemand (RoD) system—but don't have time to attend a class? Now RoD customers can obtain professionally guided training sessions at their convenience, and without leaving their desks. With SumTotal RoD Training on Demand, you gain expert understanding on the features of the system that matter most to you, presented clearly in a visual, step-by-step process.

Exclusively for existing RoD customers on the RODZone, the Training on Demand service offers an online library of SCORM-based course content available through flexible usage and download licenses. Users have the option to purchase targeted training courses, individually or in bundles, in order to suit their schedules and their learning needs. And, with new courses and updates added regularly, content evolves with the latest functionality to keep users current.

Content categories and bundles ensure flexibility—with no compromise on quality

The RoD Training on Demand service ranks content according to the complexity of each subject, the depth of information covered, and the intended duration of the course. In addition, pre-defined content bundles group related topics for purchase at a lower price point. By selecting the level and/or the bundle that best meets your needs, you get the greatest value and flexibility from your investment. Choose from:

- Basic. Delivered in short segments of up to 30 minutes, Basic content provides overviews of LMS functionality intended to give users straightforward training on broad subjects, such as Overview of Out-of-the-Box Learning Activity Types, Adding Vendors, and Overview of Security Roles

RoD Training on Demand

- Intermediate. This content, delivered in slightly longer segments of 30 to 60 minutes, offers more in-depth LMS training on critical administrative functions impacting user experience, tracking, and reporting. Topics covered include Managing Users Who Manage Other Users, Creating Fulfillment Links, and Using and Managing Waitlists
- Advanced. With courses lasting 60 or more minutes, Advanced content covers those tasks requiring more extensive training to ensure proper use of the LMS and to best facilitate your day-to-day operations. For example, advanced course subjects include Creating and Managing Security Roles, Managing Collaboration Centers and Experts, and Using User-defined Metadata.

Licensing options provide affordable downloads tailored to your needs

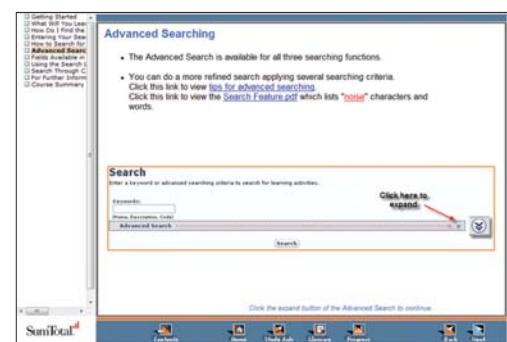

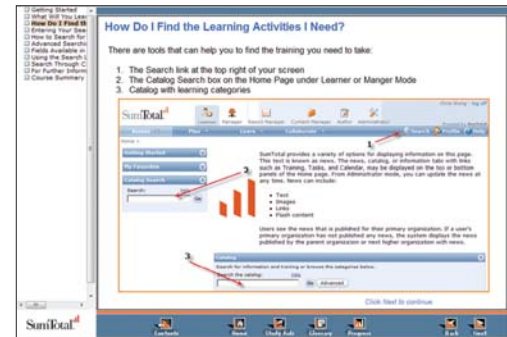

To provide added flexibility for any budget, RoD Training on Demand content can be purchased through three different levels of licensing:

- One-time use. Offered at a significantly lower price point, this license enables you to view content once. Additional viewings, should they be necessary, will require additional payment
- Unlimited use. This license option enables you to pay once and then re-launch a course for as many viewings as you need
- Content download. With this license alternative, you can download a course and then upload it to your own LMS. This is especially useful if you want to utilize existing course content within your own training programs.

On-demand training elevates learning to new levels of efficiency

With the RoD Training on Demand service, you get short, targeted training on functionality that meets your budget, your schedule, and your learning requirements—without sacrificing the professional expertise and best practice advice offered by more formal, instructor-led courses.

In addition, the fast, easy nature of on-demand training easily accommodates the dynamics of your business. Need to train new learners, administrators, or managers? Simply access and launch the course content that's relevant to your needs, and you'll avoid the costly and time-consuming process of running complete re-training programs—which often require travel or on-site product specialists. Moreover, when functionality changes within the ResultsOnDemand system, course content is updated and available, so you'll always be ready to leverage new features.

For more information, please contact the Services Operations Coordinator at +1-866-768-6825 ext. 5603.